

1975 SAU Baseball Tournament

During a five-year sojourn in the United States I came to appreciate some of the lore and finer points of baseball. The fantastic loyalty with which the fortunes of the home town Major League team were followed was very infectious. I rapidly became a Red Sox aficionado and spent many a happy hour in the bleachers at Fenway Park following the exploits of local heroes like Ted Williams and Yaztremski.

While I offer a hearty and sincere welcome to all the teams in the Inter Varsity Baseball Tournament, there are no prizes for guessing which side I shall be supporting.
